A Fair Deal All Around.

In our last issue brief mention was made of the fact that Judge Cochran, of the U. S. district court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, had decided that Caleb Powers was entitled to have the trial of the prosecution against him for the murder of Goebel removed to the United States court. Upon the delivery of Powers to the jailer at Newport pursuant to the order of Judge Cochran, a scene arose which, if correctly reported, is not to the credit of the mayor of Newport. It seems that friends of Powers had fitted up a cell in the jail with new furniture, lace curtains and other room furnishings to make it more comfortable and less unattractive than the ordinary jail cell. The jailer was preparing to place Powers inside this special cell when the mayor of Newport objected and insisted that Powers be placed in a common cell. A personal encounter took place between the mayor and a jail guard in which the mayor was roughly handled. The affair involved the police force of the city and resulted in warrants issued by a United States commissioner for the arrest of the mayor and chief of police on the charge of interfering with United States officers in discharge of their duty. However guilty of the crime of assassination Caleb Powers may be, and we firmly believe he is guilty; however erroneous the ruling of Judge Cochran may be, and the best legal talent in the country believe the judge erred; there can be no excuse for the conduct of the mayor. In the first place, it is beyond the scope of the mayor's power to interfere in any manner with the jailer in the execution or non-execution of his official functions. If the jailer exceeds or falls short of his official duty, he is responsible to the Commonwealth and not to the mayor. The mayor is not charged by law with the duty of seeing that the jailer performs his duties. In the second place, no harm can come to the State by any favors the friends of Powers may show him in his confinement. The object of his retention in custody is not to punish him for the offense with which he is charged, but to secure his presence for trial of the indictment. He can not be tried without his personal presence, and when that is secured the full purpose of the law, in advance of the conviction, is attained. In this view, and it is the legal view, it is wholly immaterial how luxuriously a prisoner may live provided the cost of it is not chargeable against the State.

We have said above that we believe Powers is guilty. We repeat it. But he must be given a fair trial under approved forms of law, else we have anarchy. If he violated the law, he should suffer by the law and according to the law. Such we believe is the sentiment of all right thinking people. But the multitudinous facts which crowd the history of his partisans in their energetic efforts to acquit him forces the belief that, by an original impulse, they wanted Goebel killed, and they now want his slayer both acquitted and apotheosized. They prate long and loud about the justice of the law. It is this justice they fear and have endeavored to thwart. They declaim about the denial to him of "equal rights" guaranteed by that legislative stride toward imperial centralization, forced down the throats of an unwilling people by the bayonet, called the 14th Amendment; but this vociferation means nothing but disappointment that Powers was caught, and anger at the prospect of his conviction. It seems incredible that any sane man could read the history of the assassination trials, omitting all evidence which the courts have ruled incompetent, and escape the conviction that Powers was the chief agent in the foul tragedy. There seems to be but one explanation of the constant and unremitting protests of those who desire his acquittal, and that is that every intelligent and well informed man in Kentucky, or elsewhere, who asserts that Caleb Powers does not deserve the halter is moved to do so because, and only because, he approves the assassination. That is the logic of it; for a well informed man is not a fool.

As to the assumption of jurisdiction of the cause by Judge Cochran, we have nothing to say. Knowing nothing of the law, it would be presumptuous for us to say aught other than that if it be the law then the law should be upheld. It may not, however, be going too far to say that if a State is divested of its jurisdiction to try offenses against its own laws upon the prophecy of the accused that his "equal rights" will be denied him by the State courts, then that we call State sovereignty becomes a myth; that we call State rights becomes a shadow; that we call internal police becomes a farce. When, at last, we have to go to Washington to establish all our rights or to redress all our wrongs, then in the language of the dismal wail of our old friend, Charley Kirtly, "of happy memory," "Farewell Earth and Howdy Hell!"

THE Government crop reports are at best mere guesses of men, who do not often put themselves to much trouble to inform themselves. But even these guesses, manipulated by dishonest persons, become a means of dangerous speculation. A statistician of the Agricultural Department has been detected and suspended for giving out crop reports in advance, but that is small punishment for so flagrant breach of trust. It is said that he is merely a scapegoat and that others higher in official rank are equally guilty. Corruption appears to grow and foster in the administration of the Government at Washington and honesty seems to be a lost virtue.

SWEETING reductions in the salaries of various employees of the Eupitabile Assurance Society were announced by Chairman Morton. The decreases will amount to 20 per cent. on all salaries over $15,000 per annum; 15 per cent. from all annual salaries between $9,000 and $15,000, both inclusive and 10 per cent. decrease from all salaries above $2,500 and below $9,000 per year. These changes become operative on August 1, next, and effect a saving of from $150,000 to $200,000 a year.

WE admire Mayor Helmbold's democracy but doubt his good judgment in his effort to make Newport's jailer put Caleb Powers into an ordinary cell after the best cell in the jail had been fixed for him. Lovers of justice care very little about the marked attention shown Powers and less for the fools who try to worship him, as long as he is kept securely in the clutches of the law and ready to answer when his trial is called.

THE last democratic county judge was J. S. Kendrick, elected 54 years ago. The county has been either Whig or republican for over a half century. — Somerset Journal. What a magnificent opportunity Judge Ben V. Smith has to clean things out and put the affairs of the county in the good condition they were a half century ago. Judge Smith is the man who can do it and we believe he will do it.

WISCONSIN compels life insurance companies to credit policy-holders with surpluses at least every five years. This is a pointer for the next Kentucky Legislature. With the surplus divided among those to whom it belongs there will be less incentive for stealing by the officers and directors.

THERE are hardly as many democrats in the United States Senate as republicans, but what they lack in quantity is made up in quality. Several republican Senators are standing in the open doors of penitentiaries, but not a democrat is even under the suspicion of crime.

SECOND BASEMAN FRANK BONNER'S wife committed suicide after the Kansas City team had reached the bottom of the percentage ladder by continuous loss of games. Pity she didn't kill the old man first and thus put an end to a family of base ball cranks.

A Virginia mountaineer who had strayed to Richmond on an excursion, and who, as his holiday progressed, became rather hilarious, grew over-confident of his own greatness. Looking round at his companions, says the Baltimore Sun, he boasted vainly.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I kin lick any man in Richmond."

No one offered to dispute the assertion, and he tried again.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I kin lick any man in the whole State of Virginia."

The words were hardly out of his mouth before a tall sinewy man from his own part of the State entered the game and gave the boaster a good thrashing.

The mountaineer had a sense of humor. He slowly picked himself up and faced the group to which he had boasted.

"Gentleman," he said, "I am now ready to acknowledge that I kivered too much territory in that last statement."

State College of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Physical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, and Mining Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty number nearly 50 professors and instructors.

County appointees receive free tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and light, and if they remain 10 months, traveling expenses.

The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern. The Legislature appropriated $50,000 for a college home for young women and $30,000 for drill hall and gymnasium for men. Both buildings are completed and in use. Military tactics and science are fully provided for as required by Congress.

Graduates find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the College to supply.

Specialists with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering, instruction in science and in arts.

The State College of Kentucky, though bearing hitherto the title of "college," is the only institution in the Commonwealth doing, in any proper sense, university work. The completion of the College home for young women provides facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It is heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is thus afforded to young women of obtaining a thorough education in classics, modern language, literature, science, mathematics, logic, metaphysics, history and political economy. No other institution in the State offers advantages for education of women at all comparable to those offered by the State College of Kentucky.
